

A. F. Identifies Officers Named At Powers Trial

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (UPI)—The Air Force said today that Col. William Shelton is commander of a weather observation squadron at Adana, Turkey. U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers at his Moscow spy trial identified a "Col. Shelton" as the man who gave him orders to fly on a reconnaissance flight over Russia May 1. The flyer was based at Adana before his capture by the Russians.

The Pentagon said Col. Shelton is commander of the 2nd Weather Observation Squadron, Provisional, at the United States base in Turkey.

Mr. Powers also testified that a "Gen. White" and a "Gen. Frank Everett" visited the closely-guarded base at Adana. Gen. Thomas D. White is United States Air Force Chief of Staff. There is no Gen. Everett listed at the Pentagon, but the Air Force said Gen. Frank P. Everest is commander of the Tactical Air Command and formerly was head of the United States Air Force in Europe.
